LEXINGTON (Ky.,) Sept. 15.—No elec ton of business as the conest between Owens, Breckinridge and E E. Settle for the Democratic nomination for this district. For months the district manner. It was not a political not ever dactional fight; it was a moral contest for weeks and months, and during the last few days at became intensely personal. he never before made such speeches or displayed such executive ability in organization. He marshaled every man he could command, but he could not com-mand the women. They had no votes, but they were the controlling elements fight.

At the Owens headquarters to claims have run up from 400 at 7 o'clock o two, three and even five times that plurality, and they say in their rejolicing

With the saloons closed, the women praying and the best influences all aroused, there was a quiet election with excitement and bitter feeling neventheless, at their highest pitch.

The greatest surprise of the day was she good order everywhere. There were some personal encounters, but not so many as usual at elections. There was, however, great preclation to prevent trouble. Old friends and neighbors had been having their funings and they wanted only the victing today. If the Breokinridge men had enforced their challenge as strictly as they expected, their would have been trouble. So clearly that the canvassing and polling been done that the challengers knew how almost all the Democrats stood and they could have kept many from voiling.

and they could have kept many from voting.

It was generally believed the Republican managers favored Breckinridge, as they thought that in the event of his nomination, their candidate's election would not be hopeless. Very few Republicans, however, where the large description are loved the second of the control of the ever, voted. As many precincts are long dis-tances from the telegraph offices the com-plete returns will likely not be known beplete returns will likely not be known before morning. But Owens seems to be so much in the lead that it will not require the complete returns to settle the result.
At a late bour tonight, while the Breckardige people will claim their man will pull through, their confidence is not very marked. They are evidently greatly surprised at the outcome of the day's voting.
In Fayette county they expected nothing short of 700 or 800 majority, but the work that was done against him brought his majority down to a little over 200. In Franklin county, where the Breckinridge

Franklin county, where the Breckinridge decrees expected a majority of 150, the Owens people have a majority of not less than 500. In Woodford and other counties the same story is told.

The feeling in Henry county was bitter and a serious fight occurred during the atternoon at Lockport. It is said tonight that Mr. Breckinridge expressed his wilthat Mr. Breckindige expressed his wil-tingness to submit calmly to the decision of the voters. He is quoted as saying that if defeated no one will give more ardent support to the nominee that he and that he will advise all his friends to the the arms. He will the Democrat for do the same. He will be a Democrat, first last and all the time.

WATTERSON REJOICES.

LOUISVILLE (Ky.,) Sept. 15.—Late returns to the Courier-Journal make the total vote: Owens, 8102; Breckinridge, 7687; Settle, 3407, giving Owens the nomination by a plurality of 415.

Mr. Watterson has the following at the head of the news column: "The good peo-ple of Kentucky will breathe freer today. It was a flerce, relentless fight, but the or of the State was involved with its virtue, manhood and Christianity. The church bells ring out happy auguries; the prayers today give thanks to God. Great disgrace has been averted. The good sense and integrity of the people of the Ashland district and of popular government have

AT THE POLLING PLACES.

LEXINGTON (Ky..) Sept. 15.—Intense suppressed excitement, but general good order, characterized the Congressional order, characterized the Congressional primaries here today. In some precincts challenges were numerous, but few votes were refused. Prof. A. V. Gordon of Allegan Academy, a Confederate soldier, was challenged, and, as he refused to was challenged, and, as he refused to pledge himself to support Breckinridge, his rote was refused. The incident created considerable excitement. A large vote was polled, but it is impossible to make a positive estimate of the result. A prayer magting at noon was attended by over 1000 persons, mostly ladies.

At 2:30 o'clock the indications were that

At 2:30 o'clock the indications were that Bredkinridge would carry the city by several hundred owing to the superior organization of his ward workers. In the county, Owens is believed to be ahead. Both the Owens and Breckinridge leaders claim victory. Outside of Oldham, Henry and Owens counties, Settle will not figure.

VERSALLIES (Ky.,) Sept. 15.—Out in the Faywood meighborhood, five miles east of this city, there was a pitched bat-tle this morning between Breckinridge and Owens men. G. W. Gillispie, a Breckin-ridge man, was stabbed twice, just above the heart, in the back. It was impossible

TAKING NO ADVANTAGE.

FRANKFORT (Ky.,) Sept. 15.—The primary election proceeded quietly, the Breck-inridge men not taking advantage of the pledging of voters, according to the rule adopted by the District Committee last Saturday, because of Judge Captril's injunction, restraining them from so doing. It is thought this will prevent trouble. At 11 o'clock Brackinridge was running ahead in Woodford county, and was reported as carrying Lexington by 2 to 1.

BETTER THAN EXPECTED. PARIS (Ky.,) Sept. 15, noon.—Owens is getting a majority in Bourbon county, conceded to be Breckinridge's stronghold. Specials from other points indicate Owen running ahead more than was expected.

FIGURES AT LOUISVILLE. LOUISVILLE, Sept. 15.—Indications are this evening that Owens has carried Frankin county by 300 plurality, Woodford by 250, Oldham by 144, Scott by 1000, Bourbon by 100, and Henry by 200 plurality. Owen county is conceded to Settle by about fifteen hundred plurality, and Breckinridge polled a much larger vote than was expected. Breckinridge will probably carry Fayette county, though the vote in the county as a whole will be close.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Samuel J. Rob-CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Samuel J. Rob-erts, editor of the Kentucky Daily Leader, telegraphs from Lexington, three hours after the polls closed: "Owens's nomination seems certain, un-county gives Br enormous vote. No telegraph office there and returns are slow."

Madeline Pollard is not in Lexington as reported.

LITTLE HOPE LEFT. LEXINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Breckinidge men here say they have little hope left. Returns up to 7 p.m. give the ity for Owens over Breckiaridge as follows: Woodford, 110; Franklin, 600; Scott, 1100; Woodford, 10; Frankin, 500; Sect. 1100; Oldham, 50; total 1860. For Breckinridge: Owen, 800; Fayette, 400; Bourbon, 100; Henry, 200; total 1500. Majority of Owens over Breckinridge, 360.

At Owens's headquarters they are feeling good, although the results are only estimated on few returns. LEXINGTON AND DISCORD.

LEXINGTON, Sept. 15.—Desha Breckin-ridge was passing precinct D voting place this afternoon, when he saw J. W. Peak, a strong Owens worker, inside the booth preparing an affidavit. Desha spoke to him through the window and told him that he had no business in there and that he had better come out. Peak replied that he would not come out and Breckinridge went in the booth to him. The two men clinched, but were separated.

Peak soon afterward come out, when Breckinridge met him the second time and a lively fight followed. Both men had their faces badly scratched, several blows being passed. Both men had pistols. In the last fight they were separated before they had a chance to draw their weapons. Desha drove to all precincts, personally inspecting them during the day. A LANDSHIDE.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 15.—A special from La Grande to the Post at 7:45 p.m. says that the vote in Oldham county is an Owens landslide. The result in the county Owens landslide. The result in the county is as follows: Owens, 407; Breckinridge, 241; Settle, 263; Owens's plurality, 166. ABOUT 1000 MAJORITY.

LEXINGTON (Ky.,) Sept. 15.—At 8 p.m. the Daily Transcript announces the following: "Returns are only partially following: "Returns are only partially in from the Congress primary today, but the indications point to a vectory for C. Owens by about 1000 majority. There has been a bitter fight in every precinct in the district, but the Owens men have suc-ceeded in carrying the day so far as can be learned at this hour. No serious diffi-cuittes have occurred."

Democracy in Utah Struggles in the Throes of Composition.

SALT LAKE, Sept. 15.—The Demicratic Territorial Convention was called to order in the operatouse this afternoon, by J. T. Caine. The hall was handsomely and lavishly decorated with flags and bunting lavishly decorated with flags and bunting and profuse in mottes and statements, making claims of what the Republicans had not done and what the Democratic party had done for the people of Utah. Prayer was offered by Bishop Whitney. O. H. Powers was chosen temporary chairman. He made a brief speech, which was in-terrupted by frequent applause. Committees on Permanent Organization, Creden-tials and Resolutions were appointed, and the convention took a recess until 1

On the reassembling of the convention, Hcn. A. W. Ivans was made permanent chairman and S. A. King secretary. The Committee on Resolutions made a report, which was unanimously adopted. The principal points are as follows:

"We hereby affirm our adherence to the principles of justice and free government which the Democratic party was organized to establish and preserve, and which have been embedied in the plat-forms adopted by the Democracy in their national conventions. We believe in a strict construction of the Constitution, to the end that the rights of the respective States may be preserved. We believe in the encouragement and advancement of home industries, in the protection of labor from the encroachments of capital, and equal rights to all and special privileges

"We demand the passage of a law for the free and unlimited colnage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of any other nation; and that the government shall pay out silver so coined as a money of mate redemption, the same as gold.

"We commend the Democratic Congress and administration for the measures of re-form which they have succeeded in effecting, by which hundreds of millions of dolhars will be annually saved to American consumers, and all classes of people will be benefited. We contend that such duties as are laid on foreign imports should be levied for revenue only, as contemplated in the national Constitution. "We emphatically disapprove of the course of these Democrats, who, by com-bining with the Republicans, thwarted the expressed will of the people in reference to the tariff, and prevented the restoration "We indorse the income tax provision of the tariff law.

"We indorse the acts of the Democratic Congress and administration in abolishing. the oppressive and anti-American Federal election laws, and thus securing freedom of citizens at the polls; in so revising the pension lists that the frauds which have robbed the treasury of vast sums of money will be prevented in future, while no worthy pensioner will be deprived of the aid to which his services are entitled; in restoring to a religious organization in Utah its personal property which was conascated under the provisions of law, with the prospect of the future restoration of the real estate also escheated; in passing an enabling act by which Utah may enter the Union as a free and sovereign State on an equal footing with the existing States. For this Utah owes a debt of gratitude to the Democratic Congress and President, whose kind treatment of this Territory stands out in striking contrast to that harshness and enmity extended by Republican Congresses and administra-tions for thirty years.
"We feel proud of our delegate to Con-

Associated Press Leased-wire Service CHICAGO, Sept. 15 .- A new experim is about to be tried in connection with shipping California fruit. The arrange-ments are about complete. Carbonic acid gas is shortly to be tried, experimentally, as a substitute for refrigeration in bringing California fruit to the Chicago market. The charge for a refrigerator friut car from California to Chicago is $125, and it is to save this expense that the experiment will be made. Growers who have made the test claim that if fruit is surrounded by carbonic acid gas instead of air the process of decay is arrested and the flavor of the fruit is not impaired.

have been forced lower than at any other time.

Another cause that has had a depressing effect on the sheep market has been the severe drought which favored the market for unfinished sheep. The unusual activity of the sheep market for a few years also may have had an influence through stimulating the breeding of undesirable sheep that are compelled to go to market in such times as these. These circumstances, it is thought, will lead many flockmasters to think seriously of sacriding their flocks.

Capt. Bridgman commanded the United States cruiser Baltimore up to July 16 last, when he left the Baltimore in Asiatic waters, after about two years' service on her, and returned to this country for two years of shore duty. He arrived here about August 16 last, to visit his brother, Arthur Bridgman, cashier of the Commercial Bank. A few weeks ago he was taken down with Asiatic fever, and, despite all that medical assistance could do, he steadily grew worse. Capt. Bridgman never despaired. He bore his affliction bravely, and was determined not to die. It has been evident for some days that the brave man could not recover. Yesterdey morning it became apparent that the end was near, and the attending physician told him so. The officer replied, with a smile: "You do your part, doctor, and we will pull this thing through. I cannot afford to die."

He was in full possession of his mind until almost to the last. Robert Whiting, surgeon of the monitor Monterey, now in the harbor, came ashore to visit him last night. A short time before his death, Capt. Bridgman's mind began te wander. He thought he was again aboard his ship, the began to give orders. The last command of his weak voice was: "Lower the flag."

In a short time messenger returned and said that he had seen Ball, but it was not the man who had given him the check. The boy said that he had been sent to Ball's office by the company and that a man representing himself as the attorney met him at the door, handed him the check and instructed him to go to the Bank of California and get it cashed.

A search was immediately made for the forger, but he could not be found. It is thought that a confederate followed the boy to the bank and seeing the boy come out without any package of coin, became suspicious and warned the forger away from Ball's office.

The symptoms were violent pains in the stomsick without any apparent cause. The symptoms were violent pains in the stomach, dizziness and nausea. Children as well as grown persons were attacked in several families and the doctors could not solve the mystery. It seemed as if the people had been poisoned, but all recovered gradually, after having purged violently and partaken freely of warm drinks.

The solution of the sickness has finally been solved. Water for drinking and cooking purposes had been taken from a well near the Ogie farm for many years by the farners tiving in that vicinity. The well had become the nest of a family of big green snakes, which are said to have poisoned the water to such an extent that it is almost a miracle that those taken sick recovered. There was much excitement among the farmers when they found that the well was allve with reptiles. Some few were brought to the surface, but the greater number, when the water was disturbed crawled to a place of safety through the grevices of the rocks. The finding of the snakes in the well ended what promised to be a great sensation of a whole might be proposed.

SENATOR HARRIS IN TENNIDESCEE.

TRENTON (Tenn.) Sept. 15.—Senator Isham G. Harris opened the campaign in Tennessee here today in a speech before one of the largest audiences ever assembled in the State. Senator Harris was in his happiest mood, and was frequently interrupted by cheers. He said, in part, that while the new tariff bill was not entirely satisfactory to himself or to a large emajority of the Democratic Senators, he could assert with absolute confidence that it is the best tariff bill for the consumer and taxpayer that has been passed or offered in the past forty years. He does not hesitate to denounce as injust and absolutely unfounded statements that the Senate was controlled by the Sugar Trust. He did not believe a single Democratic Senator was so controlled.

"The act of 1894 concerning sugar is yearly better for the taxpayer than the McKinley act, as the 40 per cent ad valorem tax is very much less than the bounty of 2 cents a pound, and one-eighth of 1 cent a pound on refined sugar, just a fourth of the protection the McKinley act gave to the refiner or the Sugar Trust."

Senator Harris coutinued: "The plain and practical question presented to the Democratic members of the Senato Finance Committee was: "That we perspective the McKinley tariff act with all of the month."

When we owe other countries we will find a means of payment. If not in cotton, wheat or other of our products, we may possibly make terms with shylocks for gold enough to pay."

The Senator concluded by saying he favored the repeal of the tax on State banks.

He has just come back from the rendesvous of the just come back from the rendesvous of the Bill Cook-Daiton gang, which was organized by the union of the Bill Cook gang and the remnants of Bill Daiton's old band. Smith went there alone, trying to induoe Bill Cook, who formerly worked as a member of Smith's posse, to abandon his life of outlawry. Cook assured him, however, that he proposed to go ahead in his career for it was now too late to turn back. There were thirteen men in the gang and they are now as strong as Bill Daiton's old band ever was. Deputy Marshal Smith, who has the reputation of being one of the bravest men in the service of the United States Marshal here, found the whereabouts of the band in a rather peculiar manner.

He learned that one of the band had a sweetheart at Sapulpa, I. T. Ten days ago Smith went there to see her. After considerable persuasion he convinced her that he was alone and prevailed upon her to pilot him to the camp of the bandits. One week ago Wednesday they left Sapulpa and traveled around several days rather aimlessly and on Sunday morning reached the camp. This is the first authentic news of the movement of the band since the Red Fork, I. T., express robbery.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 15.—The new Louisville Jockey Club is out with its first an ville Jooksy Club is out with its first an-nouncement regarding stakes. From its first entry blanks, sent out today, it will be seen seen that a number of radical changes have been made in the classic stakes of Kentucky. The Kentucky Derby, for instance, for twenty years a mile and a half, and once the greatest stake in America, has been reduced to a mile and a quarter. The Clark stakes and Kentucky Oaks, both equally as old as the Derby have also been reduced, the former to a mile and an eighth, and the latter to a mile and a sixteenth.

But, while the distances have been reduced, the values of each have been increased. The Derby, is now guaranteed to be worth $6000 cash, the forfeit system having been abolished. All fits stakes hereafter, the new jockey club announces, will be guaranteed and none of less than $2000 cash value. The reduction in the Kentucky Derby distance was a necessity, according to the statement of Secretary Price. Turfmen no longer train their three-year-olds to go a mile and a half in the early spring. In the summer, with the present methods prevailing, it does not hurt the colt a great deal, if any, but such a race in the spring is apt to unfit him for the remainder of the season.

The Lieutenant Decides to Remain in the Arctic Another Year-The Story of the Expedition.

whole personnel of the Peary expedition of last year except Lieut. Peary himself, Hugh Lee, a companion and Matthew Henson, a colored servant, all of whom will remain at Bowdoin Bay for another were taken by Mr. Baldwin.

On March 6 last the main expedition started across Greenland to Independence Bay, the farthest point north reached by Lieut. Peary on his previous journey. The storms reached their worst point during the equinoctial gales in March. The party was then in camp about fifty miles from Anniversary Lodge, in a temporary house at the head of Bowdoin Bay. The thermometer dropped to 54 and 60 degs. below zero and remained so for two days, with a gale blowing about fifty miles an hour. The dogs perished in great numbers. After the storm the whole party returned to Anniversary Lodge, where they left three sick men. Then the four healthy ones, Lieut. Peary, Ingram, Clark and Baldwin started again and continued onward fourteen days. But the dogs continued to die and those left were unable to drag the sledges and provisions. The party was so weak from exposure that the traveling was so long as to render it impossible to reach Independence Bay in time to accomplish anything. Consequently Peary returned to headquarters, which were reached on April 20.

The party was absent shout forty-five days, and only got 130 miles away. It started with ninety-two dogs and returned with only twenty-six, after hewing abandoned all the aledges on the way. It covered only a quarter of the distance necessary, and never made more than twenty miles any day. All had narrow escapes from being frozen to death. Dayldson was sick for four months after his experince. The party regained health, and other explorations in the neighborhood were made. Astrup surveyed the unexplored part of the coast of Moiville Bay, and charted 100 miles of it. Lift. Peary and his wife made a sledge journey to Olrake Bay, 100 miles distant. Ingram and Dr. Nincent tried to reach Kane's winter quarters at Littleton Island, but the the broke up, compelling them to return.

all the heirs-at-law did not appear before the court, but later they will do this, it is said, and secure the writ.

Proofs of heirship have already been made. Newell's heirs-at-law, besides his widow, are two sons, Ashbel Newell of this city and John E. Newell of Cleveland and a daughter, Mrs. James Garfield of Cleveland, wife of the son of the late President. As yet the will has not been filed, but lies in the hands of the late attorneys of the estate. The property consists principally of stocks and bonds, and is said, on good authority, that it will amount to about $1,000,000.

Street Duel With Three Victims

WACO (Tex.,) Sept. 15 .- At Gathville, us of the Cotton Belt road, to day a fatal street duel took place between J. L. Goodman, editor of the Peo-ple's Voice, and H. G. Armstrong, editor of the Star, both weekly papers. The duel grew out of a personal controversy in the papers over the Ed Cash lynching a few months ago. Goodman was shot through the heart and Armstrong through the box-ols, both dying. J. G. Beeman, a bystander, was fatally wounded in the neck

The Sugar Trust Officials.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The cases of Messrs. Havemeyer and Searles of the Sugar Trust and Seymour of the brokerage firm of Seymour Bros. & Young of New York, who refused to give testimony before the Sugar Trust Investigating Committee, have been under consideration by the grand jury of the district all the week. It is understood, true bills have been found against three witnesses and they will be presented to the Criminal Court before the close of next week.

State Tax Gatherers Knocked Out by the Supreme Court. The San Francisco Examiner of Friday

says:
"The Supreme Court has just decided a case of great interest to those that have lost property to the State through delinquent taxes. It is estimated that the State has title or liens on nearly $2,000,000 that have come to it through delinquent taxes. A number of agents in the State are making handsome incomes by collecting money to redeem this property. They get $3 on each notice served and 15 per cent. of the cash paid into the county treasury.
"The cases just decided were regarded in the light of test suits. Agent R. F. House looked after Los Angeles and Orange counties. Solid .....Sincere....

an appointment? Simply nothing. He could not collect redemption money nor receipt for it. He could not as the agent of the county, give notice to the owners of applications on the part of the State to procure deeds to land purchased by it. This right or duty belonged to the State, and could only be exercised by it.

"We are of the opinion that the Board of Supervisors, in the absence of positive

"We are of the opinion that the Board of Supervisors, in the absence of positive law authorizing it so to do, cannot in any case appoint an agent to exercise powers which it cannot itself exercise. In the exercise of powers conferred upon it it may appoint agents to discharge ministerial duties not calling for the exercise of reason or discretion, but cannot go beyond this and delegate to others duties, the discharge of which, calling for the use of reason and discretion, are regarded as public trusts.

"We do not, however, base our decision upon the ground that the duties devolving upon House are of such a character as called for the exercise of discretion and Judgment, but upon the broader ground that and tendered the money. House had a claim of $201 for serving notices on the company, that is, a claim of $3 on each lot. The Treasurer demanded this money before issuing the proper receipts. The land company ratused to pay the $201 claim on the ground that House's appointment through the Collector and Attorney-General was illegal. It sued the Treasurer to compel him to issue proper papers. Judgment was given for the Treasurer in the lower court, but the Supreme Court has reversed the judgment."

(Boston Journal:) Germany's resentment of the increased duty on sugar brings a new perplexity upon our much-harried administration. And the Bourbon onslaught on reciprocity is stirring up even more harred against us in Central and South America than Europe.

Enthusiasm at the Populist Meeting Wanting.

mmonplace Speeches Listened to With Indifference and but Little Applause is Accorded the

The mass-meeting held by the Repulists ast night at Hazard's Pavilion was a last night at Hazard's Pavillon was a very tame affair, the customary features of red-fire effect and wild applause being sadiy wanting. The Pavillon did not contain a third of the people who gathered to hear Mr. Estee a week previous, and this fact was a great disappointment to the local Populist leaders, who had expected a great throng to listen to Webster, their candidate for Governor.

A procession was first formed, and, with a band in front, a small body of

A procession was first formed, and, with a band in front, a small body of men escorted the speaker through the streets to the Pavilion. There was but little enthusiasm manifested throughout the evening, and only in one or two instances did those who spoke receive anything like vigorous applause.

Enoch Pepper acted as master of cere-

Then Salyer's Quartette sang about the change coming this fall, when the "people" had their say.

A. J. Gregg, candidate on the Populist ticket for the Lieutenant covernorship, was introduced, pending the arrival of the principal speaker of the evening. Gregg said that he would merely preface the general addresses with a few remarks. His talk was of a vague, disconnected kind, and the audience seemed somewhat relieved when he finished.

Soon the noise of the band playing "Down, South in Dixle" was heard, and the procession came marching in.

was very weak.

While Gregg was speaking against the Democrats, a boy in the gallery called out "Hurran for Cleveland!" which dig concerted the speaker, while the listeners.

conserted the speaker, while the listeners' hughed. Meanwhile, a cross-eyed Populist hung out a sign from the side of the stage, bearing a definition of the "initiative." He made a mistake and hung the wrong side out, and left the audience to puzzle over the wording.

Gregg thought that the people should vote for sure-enough darmers this year. He said: "These bankers, who never raised a cabbage, ought to start in now. Mr. Estee says that the people should produce what they consume and it is time they were getting their hand in. We will turn them out of their fat offices and let them shift for themselves."

E. C. Schnabel made a plea for funds before the usual collection was taken up, in the course of which he said that the Populist party was not a rich man's party. In it were no bankers and capitalists and no corporation contributed toward the carrians on of the corporation contributed toward the carrians on of the corporation.

no corporation contributed toward the carrying on of the campaign.
While the women passed the hats the quartette again sang a "hymn."
The collection having been taken, J.
V. Webster, candidate for Governor, was presented. Mr. Webster is an elderly man, who wears whiskers and hair several inches in length. He is a perfect picture of the backwoods rancher as seen in the "Hoosier Schoolmaster" and every one expected him to say "bretherin and sisterin" when he opened his mouth to talk.
He did not do so, however, but started in by paying a compliment to the citzens of Los Angeles and then proceeded to discuss the political questions at issue. The

It said that before the last election estee had said that before the last election the wheels of commerce were moving and abor received a just reward. A well-down Democrat had said that the people wanted a change and for that reason they urned the Republicans out and put the Democrats in. It was really going from the part of the said that the Populists were worse free traders than the Democrats. The question of free trade was a allacy which no party really believed in. upon.

J. R. Rush made the closing speech, but he was obliged to talk to many empty benches, for the audience had been slowly diminishing turing the evening, and when the Rush erose, but a few remained. The meeting was far from being a successful one and the Populists did not seem to be panticularly pleased with the result.

THE COUNTY COMMITTEE MEETS AND ADJOURNS.

ADJOURNS.

The Democratic County Central Committee gathered in the rooms of the Jeffersonian Club yesterday afternoon, to organize their forces and prepare for the coming campaign. There was an air of mystery about the meeting and a spirit of uncertainty seemed to prevail. Chairman Stephens offered an apology, as a preface, for calling the county members in at that time, and intimated that the real work would come when the general meeting was held on Wednesday next. It will be remembered that the county convention adjourned to meet on Wednesday, but it is thought that this was done merely for the purpose of affording an opportunity for concluding work in the direction of fusion. This belief was confirmed when Mr. Stephens urged all members of the committee to attend on Wednesday and to bring proxies with them.

When the meeting was called to order. Committeeman Burke arose and placed J. M. Brewer in nomination for secretary and John W. Mitchell nominated Adolph Ramish.

The nomination of Brewer created some ment as postmaster at Redondo, There were several persons present who were willing to vouch for his Democracy, and a motion was about to be carried, granting the request, when an amendment was offered to postpone action for one week. Cohen explained that the incumbent did not give satisfaction as a postmaster, and, as his removal was contemplated, he was anxious to be the first in the field. The amendment to postpone was carried.

The lack of a Democratic newspaper has seemed to trouble the disciples of the unterrified order a great deal of late, and yesterday several communications were read from parties who desired, for a consideration, to furnish the necessary "orgin." One of the proposals was signed by A. R. Hopkins, W. J. Hendley, E. J. Parks, J. S. Packard, W. D. Payne, J. H. Parrott and J. J. Parrott and read as follows:

"The necessity for a Democratic organ being very apparent to all who have the interests of the party at heart, we, the undersigned, printers and newspaper men, hereby make the following proposition to your honorable committee:

"We agree to print and publish a daily paper, to be known as the Daily Democrat, in the city of Los Angeles, to be issued seven days in the week, and to be four pages of six columns each, containing full press reports and an Al local service. The editorial policy to be dictated by your committee, with the express understanding that the local and telegraphic news shall in no manner conflict with the editorial policy of the paper. We further agree to furnish to you 2000 copies; per day of said paper, at the rate of 1½ cents each, to be paid for in cash at the end of each week."

This proposal, with a second one of like nature, was referred to the Executive Committees for consideration.

The meeting on Wednesday will probably be a short one, as the intention seems to be to merely make final arrangements in regard to the ticket.

Mrs. Galpin's Position.

W lady of this city, signing herself. "A twoman who would take the schools out of politics," writes to The Times, asserting that we do not not understand Mrs. Kate Tupper Galpin's position in the campaign she is smaking for Superintendent of Schools (which is an error) and stating the case for Mrs. Galpin as follows:

"Mrs. Galpin received her nomination as an independent candidate by petition, the attember of signers to said petition being much in excess of what is required by daw. Her plan from the first was, and always has been, to go before all the conventions—were there twenty—and ask for their indorsement. She did not ask for a nomination, believing that each party would strictly require its nominees to subscribe to its platform, and this she could not do, being unon-partisan. If the Democration of health of the convention of the said of the officer parties, she would in turn and all at once he a Populist, Prohibiticalist, Republican and Democrat. If the Democratis saw fit to place her upon their ticket, letting her stand on her own good principles, it was her gain, and yet no loss to them. Her platform is a non-partisan and non-sectarian administration of our public schools; the greatest good to each and every-child alike, unstrammeled by political being the refore Mrs. Galpin's support can only come from the parties existing; and when the voters once stop to think what this term—non-partisan menns, and view Mrs. Galpin's campaign method in its real light, I doubt not that they will readily emberdie to her platform by a sweeping ballet in her favor."

There is nothing new in this view of the case, and we give the points of the letter as requested. Mrs. Galpin now stands as the non-partisan and Democratic nominee. See?

T. Sheward,

113-115 N. Spring St.

T is a new leaf. It reads at the heading, Sheward's is the cheapest store in Los Angeles. From this time forward it will not only read this way. It will be an accomplished fact. Here is a sample. We offer the choice of 2000 Sailor Hats in felt; they are all new, and the price will be 50c for your choice. We offer the choice of 1500 felt Sailors and Alpine shapes in all colors; all new; your choice 75c. They are ready to put on; they are the best and cheapest hats ever offered in this city; they are new; they are desirable; they are not a job lot; they are being offered all over the city at exactly double our price; they are splendid for school, for street or for dress; ladies', misses' or children's sizes. We offer the choice of 500 pieces ribbons that have been selling for 50c, 60c and 75c a yard; now the price is 15c; all colors, the most desirable widths. The Hats and Ribbons are the cheapest and best offerings ever made in this city, and pronounces the fact that Sheward intends to be the cheapest trading place in Los Angeles. The Dress Goods bargains are still cheaper and better than the hat and ribbon bargains. The choice of three hundred pieces of the finest and most costly Dress Goods in the house have been selected and the price reduced exactly one-half. Once more we say Sheward is offering the greatest bargains in Los Angeles. The dollar Dress Goods now 50c; the $2 Dress Goods now $1; the $1.50 Dress Goods now 75c. Choice qualities; the most desirable styles. The finest and best goods in the house comes under this half-priced sale. The Cloak bargains demonstrate the fact that Sheward's is the cheapest place in the city. Two lots of Cloaks, one lot $1, another lot $2. We have a new cloak man, and he says he will more than double our big cloak sales before the season ends. Shirt Waists have been greatly reduced in price. This is another demonstration that Sheward's is the cheapest and best place in the city to trade. We refund money on unsatisfactory purchases. We advertise facts and represent goods honestly. We are selling a little lot of Shoes. The price has been $3 to $6.50; now $1 and $1.50. Pocketbooks; they have been 50 and 75c; now 25c. Handkerchiefs; they have been 25 and 35c; now 163c. Table Linens; they have been $1; now 75c. Crashes; they have been 20c; now 12½c. We are showing a larger line of new, desirable goods at a lower price than we have ever carried before. We are showing everything that is new and desirable in Dress Goods from 25c to $1 a yard, and the trade will appreciate the big reduction in the half-price sal of fine Dress Goods when they see the quality and style of the goods. The Dress Goods, the Hats, the Ribbons, the Cloaks are the greatest bargains ever offered in this city,

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED

By W. L. Alden.

siarly entertaining person; but when had arrived at elgars the American re a sigh of relief, tilted back his chair its rear legs, and looked about him with contented expression, and a general air having iald aside business and prepared need? for pleasure.

We were speaking of the mysterious disperance of a man, who, according to the wapapers, had left his house in Bloomary Square a fortnight ago to post a letter to be supported in the mould return five minutes, but who had never since in heard of.

There is something, in these disaparances that I cannot understand," said own. "Every new and ther some man, o has not the slightest reason for comting suicide or for running away, walks to his front door and disappears utily and forever. Say that of these menertain percentage does commit suicide, does run away, and that of the rest other percentage is knocked on the head if dropped into the Thames, there will il remain a large number of disappearaces to which we can attach no explanantable. I know a man who knew him innately, and he tells me that a better in never lived. He had not an enemy the world, and he was devotedly athesed to his wife and children. He had comfortable income and did not owe a may. He was an exceptionally hardided, clear-brained man, and the hypotais that he suddenly went mad is out the question. So is the theory that he a murdered at 7 o'clock on a summer saing between Bloomsbury Square and corner of Southampton row. And this only one of half a dozen similar cases at have come to my own knowledge." Starkweather and I agreed that the subtive same explanation of these disaparances which no one had yet thought It was an mysterious one, and that there subtive some explanation of these disaparances which no one had yet hought law broke silence and began a monologue ich lasted for the rest of the evening. "Gentlemen," he began, "we have just ch disappearances in the States. Of mre when a cashier or a broker disaparar we all know that his time for close, up it is a such men as your friend there has e resumed the American, "when the first of my friends disappeared. He was a real estate agent, and was making money hand over fist, with nothing on the face of the earth to worry him—having been happily divorced only that very year. He had been spending the evening at my house, and about 10 o'clock he started for his lodgings, which were in the next street, not 100 yards away. He had a sore throat at the time, and he said as he left me that he should stop in at the druggist's on his way home and get some medicine. He did so, as I afterwards found on inquiring of the druggist, but from the moment that he left the druggist's shop no man ever found the least trace of him of any sort, size, or description.

"That was, say, ten years ago. Two years later another friend who had been married only six weeks, and was the happiest mad I ever struck, disappeared. His wife wasn't feeling very well one Sunday evening, and he insisted upon going for the doctor. It was about 3 o'clock in the evening, and the was a bright moonlight night. The doctor's office was in the same street, about three blocks away, and the street was always full of people at that hour. But from the time my triend shut his front door behind him he vanished completely. He never went to the doctor's office, so far as we could find out, and the only trace of him that was ever found was the evidence of a boy in a druggist's shop that was about half way between my friend's house and the doctor of he or a druggist's shop that was about half way between my friend's house and the doctor as fine. The boy rather thought that a man answering to the description of the missing man had come into the shop at 8 o'clock, and bought an ounce of chlorate of potash, but as he didn't know my friend he could not, of course be sure that it was he. From that day to this nothing was he. From that day to this nothing was he. From that day to this nothing over the disappearance of these two men, and try-his wife has been married at least once since them.

"I got into a way of thinking over the disappearance of these two men, and trying to invent some theory that would account for it. I invented half a dozen theories, but every one of them broke down. I was absolubely certain that the men had neither ran away nor committed suicide, for I knew enough about both of them to know that this was simply impossible. Them again, the chances were at least a million to one that they had not been murdered. No man can be killed early in the evening in a crowded street without attracting the attention of somebody. Even a policeman would notice a thing like that. My friends had not been enticed into some dark alley and there murdered, for they were not the kind of men to have that game played on them. You might as well try to entice a cat to walk into the river. Then, too, if they had been murdered, what had become of their bodies? A human body, gandlemen, is a mighty swkward thing to dispose of surreptitiously, as you must know if you ever tried it. Well! the more I thought of the matter, the more certain I was that the missing men had not been made away with, and not run away of their own accord, nor committed suicide. Then what had become of them, and dozens of other men who had disappeared in similar circumstances? There didn't seem to be any answer to this question, and that aggravated ms. The thing best me, and I hate to be begien. But one day I was reading in a newspaper of a new sort of gunpowder, and the whole thing was clear to me at once. That is to say, I knew I had a clew, and when you have the clew to anything, you can consider that you have got the thing, that is, of course, unless you are a detective.

"I went around to the university, to a friend of mine, who was a professor of chemistry, and I said: 'Brinckerhoff, tell me if chlorate of potash is an explosive?'

"'Well, I should smile!' says he, or words to that effect. 'It's one of the most powerful of explosives, and, when it is mixed with certain other ingredients—some of which are as common as pork—it beats dynamite clean out of sight. Why, sir, I can make an explosive out of chlorate of potash that would blow the whole city of Chicago to paradise, and you could carry onough to do the deed in your trousars pocket."

"Tell me one more thing,' says I. Is there any explosive which will do a lot of work with very little noise?"

"Now, I see what you are driving at,' said Brinckerhoff. 'You are wanting to invent a noiseless powder, and are thinking of chlorate of potash. It won't do, my friend. You can manage chlorate of potash explosive force, with next to no noise, but you can never tharness it so as to use it in firearms. Other men have tried it before you ever thought of it, but they have all falled. Try something that is slower than chlorate of potash if you want to succeed in anything except blowing your own head off."

"I had learned all I wanted to learn of Brinckerhoff, and I knew now for certain that I was on the right track. I wondered that the idea had not come to my friends who disappeared had been last seen at a druggist's, where he had gone to get some medicine for a sore throat, and that there was some reason to suppose that the second man who disappeared had become in the light of what Brinckerhoff had said, I felt reasonably sure that in both cases chlorate of potash was at the bottom of the mysterious disa bottom of the mysterious disappearances of my two friends, and I set to work to try to prove it.

"I bought a couple of ounces of chlorate of potash, and that evening I gave a good big dose of the drug to my fandlady's cat, putting it in the center of a meat pill. The cat boiled it, without the least suspicion, and I watched patiently to see if the beast would disappear. She did nothing of the kind, but after about half an hour she curled up on the floor, and want into convulsions, and, after freeing har mind as to the trick that she found I had played upon her, she died, without showing the alightest inclination to explode. However, that didn't shake my faith in the theory. Branckerhoff had said that when chlorate of potash was combined with some other substance, the name of which he would not give me, its explosive powers were enormously increased. What was that other substance? It seemed with some other substance, the name of which he would not give me, its explosive powers were enormously increased. What was that other substance? It seemed to me that this question could not be a very difficult one. The two men who had disappeared must have had this substance somewhere about them, and it must have come in actual contact with the drug. That thousands of people take chlorate of potash, or carry it in their pockets, and don't disappear, must mean that they don't disappear, must mean that they don't happen to have the other mysterious substance about them. It was, then, a substance which my two friends had with them, but which the average man does not have. It must have been carried loosely in the pocket, or else it could not have come in contact with the chlorate of potash. What could this substance be?
"Well, I worked over that problem for weeks, and could not come to any conclusion. I mixed chlorate of potash with every sort of thing I could imagine a same man might possibly have in his coat pocket, but I could not produce the terrible explosive that Brinckerhoff had spoken of. It was not phosphorus, nor suiphur, or anything else that is used in making nor anything else that I could think of. I was beginning to get a little disheartened when one day I had to go to a dentist to have a tooth filled, and there I made my discovery. The dentist was one of those men who think that they can distract your attention from dental operations by perpetually talking to you. The theory is that the suffering you undergo in your ear makes you forget the suffering you undergo in your ear makes you forget the suffering you undergo in your ear makes you forget the suffering you undergo in your teeth. This particular dentist meandered along, telling me all about the weather and the politics of America and Europe, and the progress of astronomical discovery, and the last new novel he had read, and gradually he worked round to my two friends who had disappeared, and remarked how singular it was that they had both been under his hands within a week before they disappeared.

"This naturally interested me more than I cared to say, and I asked him what he had done for my friends. He said he had filled two teeth for one and seven for the other. "Filled them with gold, I suppose, said I, though I didn't suppose anything of the kind. 'Not all of them,' said the dentist. 'There were several cavities that were too large for gold fillings, and in them I used a cement.'

"'Well, that is a trade secret,' he replied. 'To tell the truth, I don't precisely know what all the ingredients are myself. I'll show it to you.' So saying he opened a drawer, and, taking out what looked like a thick sheet of giue, he laid it on the table beside me. 'That is it,' he said, 'though, of caurse, it has to be softened before being used.'

"Just them the dentist excused himself for a moment, and went into the other office to speak with a newly arrived patient, and I improved the opportunity by stealing a bit of the cement. You see I did the in the cause of science, and everybody knows that a man has a right to do anything in the cause of science, and everybody knows that a man has a right to do anything in the caus

The large sums represented by the great each of the common of the series of the common of the large sums represented by the great each of the common of the common of the collection mentioned are mainly invested as few rarities that are held at enormous diese. Costliest perhaps, among these the first two stamps issued by the fittish Colony of Mauritius. Specimens of the pair recently brought $3400 at a stamp action held in London.

An amusing item about one of these amusing item about one of these s stamps went the rounds of the a year or two ago, and well satirized the extreme devotion of philatelists to their hobby. An English collector advertised: "Wanted—to make the acquaintance of a young lady, a stamp collector, and not averse to matrimony. She must also possess a specimen of Mauritius two-penny blue, of first issue." Notice the beautiful blending of amorousness and philatelic zeal.

biending of amorousness and philatelic seal.

Several stamps of British Guiana bring from $900 to $100 each. The Sandwich Islands, Moldavia, and Afghanistan are also credited with some great rarities.

There are probably some hundreds of regular varieties, that would bring over $1000 each; and besides these, there is no end of freaks and oddities, that is stamps printed in the wrong colors, on unusual paper, or something of the kind, enabling them to command extravagant prices.

The market value of a stamp depends solely, cf course, upon the law of demand and supply. Many of the oldest issues are not rare, because so many of them were manufactured, and are yet preserved. For instance, a specimen of the first adhesive stamp, which was issued by England in 1840, may be purchased for three cents. On the other hand, certain varieties that are not really very scarce, bring higher prices than their comparative rarity would warrant, because there is some special demand for them. This is the case with the larger number of issues of our own country.

Most American collectors make a special for them. This is the case with the larger number of issues of our own country.

Most American collectors make a specialty of these, and so in obedience to their extensive demand, United States stamps bring in general higher prices than equally here ones of other countries.

Our first regular issue was made in 1847, but two or three years before that time the postmasters of several cities adopted stamps of their own to certify that postage had been prepaid. Nearly that postage had been prepaid. Nearly fill of these locals command very high prices. One issued at New Haven is held at $2500; another belonging to Millbury at $1000, and a Brattleboro local at $800. Only a specimen or two from New York and Providence can be bought as low as $45.

Later government issues of the United States are numerous, and include many varieties of considerable rarity. Among them are the ninety three departmental stamps of 1873, which continued in use but a few years, being then superseded by the present penalty envelopes. Stamps of the Treasury, War and Postoffice departments are rather common; but the executive stamps for the President's use, and those of the Navy, Justice and State departments are mostly rare today. The issue of the department last named, embraced two, five, ten and twenty dollar values, which the five is the scarcest stamp ever and by the government. It has brought sarly 1300 at auction. Comparatively few know that we issue in existence. They are not sold to the public, but only used by postmasters, who affire them to blank forms in amounts equal to the postage paid by publishers and newsdeafers on second-class matter, then cancel and forward them to Washington, where they are destroyed. As a consequence, these stamps can only surreptitiously come into the possession of collectors. But a large number of them is constantly found on the philatelle market, the result, it is supposed, of postoffice thefts and the complaisance of certain postmasters, who sell these coveted labels to friends, despite the law.

The recent Columbian stamps have sacited more interest than any others ever issued in this country. They have been much criticised, and have almost taken rank with the unother-in-law and other standbys, as butts of fournalistic wit. But it cannot be denied that they were beautiful. They have also proved a profitable venture for Uncle Sam. It is estimated that a million dollars' worth of them uncanceled, has been taken by collectors, which represents that much clear gain to the Postoffice Department.

Many other countries have lately issued commemorative stamps. A half dozen South and Central American countries thave their Columbian sets, more or less closely patterned after ours. Then, too, Japan celebrated the recent silver wedding of the Emperor by a special set of stamps; Hong Kong and Shanghai have their jubilee issues, after fifty years' continuance of their present forms of municipal government, and Portugal has gone the quarto-centennial Columbian celebrations one becter, and has an elaborately-designed set of stamps to celebrate the 500th anniversary of the earliest expedition sent out from her shores for discovery.

Most countries use characteristic and often artistic designs upon their ordinary stamps, so that the beauty of a well-arranged collection of these in part explains the popularity of the hobby. It is said that many artists who are not philatelists in the ordinary sense, yet gather the more beautiful stamps that

Stamp collectors first appear on the theater of history ten years later, and have constantly increased in numbers during all the time since that date.

Lately the influence of philately, in stimulating the young especially to take interest in modern history and geography, has been more widely recognized, and the pursuit is generally favored on that account by marents and educators.

pursuit is generally favored on that account by parents and educators.

It is, therefore, not too much to predict that this, already probably the most generally-practiced form of collecting, will continue to increase the number of its devotees.

MARRIED AT THE FAIR.

A Lost Lover from Pennsylvania Found on the Grounds.

SAN FRANCISCO. June. — There was a pretty scene enacted in the Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building at the Exposition on Tuesday. There was a wedding there, and the only guests were a newspaper man and the gentleman who gave the bride away. It happened just in front of the booth of one of the big morning, papers and was unique in its way.

The contracting parties were William Hairord Johnson and Annie Gertrude Hough. It appears that a couple of years ago Mr. Johnson, then about 23 years old, left Sterling Run in Pennsylvania and came to California He was in that state of mind commonly known as "on the verge of insanity." He confesses that his wretched plight was due entirely to debaucher? in his younger days, and neglect of his case when serious symptoms cropped out. He says he was "better than half dead, without life and hope." He loved a young lady, whose home was in Philadelphia, passionately, but, reluctantly, he had to resign all claim to her hand, as he was not fit to enter married life. This made him more despondent than ever, and, throwing up everything, he came to California, hoping that the glorious climate he had heard so much about might restore him somewhat, so that, as he put it, "death might come a little bit easy."

In Monterey he picked up a San Francisco morning paper one day, and saw an investment that struck his fancy. He decided to come here and close a bargain. He did so, but when signing the final papers he fainted in the attorney's office. A messenger was immediately dispatched to the Hudson Medical institute, junction Stockton, Market and Ellis streets, and one of the specialists hurried to the rescue. The case proved serious, and for some weeks Mr. Johnson needed unremitting care. But there came a blessing indirectly through the illness. When he had somewhat recevered he found he had perfect confidence in the skill of the physicians of the White Institute, and before he knew it he was not only on his feet, but fast regaining his old-time health and strength.

Then he found, after a m weeks ago the search was abandoned as fruitless.

Just two weeks ago last Tuesday he was standing on the same spot where he was married, when a gentle hand was placed on his shoulder and some one said—Will!" The onlookers are not likely to forget the seene. His old love, Miss Hough, had found him and that, too, right opposite the booth of the paper which had inadvertantly wrought, his recovery.

There was a quiet little breakfast at the Palace afterward, the best man—the hanager of the Hudson Medical Institute—being the only guest except a representative of the morning paper referred.

Said Mr. Johnson: "The 'Great Hudyan' at the back my lite. No friend could do me back my lite. No friend could do me back my lite. No friend could do The happy couple will not go back East, just yet, for Miss Hough—or rather, Mrs. Johnson—is infatuated with California.

Condition of the Hollenbeck Park

Lake—Personal Mention.

There is still heard an occasional complaint about the condition of the water in the Hollenbeck Park lake, but for the most part the people have become so used to the existing state of affairs as to look apon it all as a matter of course. The lake is now practically empty, only a tew feet of water remaining in the lower portions of the bed. This water is of the same sickly green hue that has all ulong characterized what might be one of the prepitiest lakes in or about this city. A park employee has explained what spears to be the greatest difficulty in keeping the lake full of fresh water, giving as the cause the fact that the lake lies over the line of a large sower main, which, when the water is turned in, acts as a drain, the pipe being porous and allowing the
